

SLR PRESENTATION WORKSHOP

The basic foundation on which SLR rests is “peer learning” - we learn from each other through a variety of presentations on topics relevant to the course we have chosen. Throughout, we are aided by our class moderator(s).

The Presentation Workshop is cost free and is informative, mutually helpful and supportive. Everyone is welcome - new members, potential members, and current members who feel they need to refresh their ideas. It is held each Fall and Winter, generally on the Thursday morning of the week prior to term commencement.

The workshop is facilitated by an experienced SLR member. It focuses on the process from selection through preparation and presentation of a topic. Questions are encouraged and suggestions for alternative methods welcomed. After the coffee break you will listen to a sample presentation and be able to participate in the discussion period.

Because you have registered or are considering registering in a course, you have an obvious interest in the subject area. That does not mean you are an expert, nor should you feel you must be an expert. Come to the workshop and start to feel more secure.

Our alumni all say that when the term commences, they can relax and enjoy the course(s) they have selected because their initial nervousness is greatly lessened.
